On May 6th, the SEAMASS Younger Members Group hosted their annual SE/PE Seminar. While usually done in person in Boston, this year's event was done virtually for the health and safety of all participants. It is one of the most popular events for the organization and this year was no exception with 50 participants from 11 states attending! It has been put on for the past few years by the YMG and helps young engineers navigate the complex testing and licensing process.

The seminar was hosted by YMG President Chelsea Hoplin and the discussion was led by recently licensed engineers Kyle Karschner and Brian Post. A detailed presentation highlighting application requirements, timelines, testing strategies, and licensing processes was followed up by a Q&A session where attendees were able to get insight on specific questions.

This was the first virtual event that the SEAMASS YMG has hosted. The positive feedback and number of participants from across the country has proved the efficacy of having online events and may lead to more in the future.

Thanks to our presenters and all those that attended for making the seminar a success!
