

Structural Engineers Association of Georgia Young Member Group

End of the Year Social Event

December 6th, 2016
Monday Night Brewing
Atlanta, GA

For one last event of 2016, young members of SEAOG met at the local brewery for some casual socializing between fellow structural engineers. Engineers from different companies and walks of life around Georgia kicked back and exchanged tidbits of each of their own careers and personal life—plenty of personal insight, horror stories, healthy discussions, and terrible jokes. In a non-technical environment like this, comradery in the profession was prevalent, and young members were able to break out of their bubbles and network with other engineers—leading to strong ties within the profession in the upcoming year.
